BLACK HISTORY 2018: A FEAST FOR THE MIND, BODY, and SOUL Submitted by Ms. Shirley L. Lewis

The 2018 Joint Colmar Manor/Cottage City Black History Celebration took place on Sat. Feb., 18, 3-6 pm, at the Colmar Manor Town Hall in the Diana M. Fennell Room. The theme, "Our Seniors—Then and Now," featured their journey through the 50's, 60's and 70's. Emceed by the very interactive Mayor Sadara Barrow of Colmar Manor, it was a fascinating stroll down memory lane with oldies but goodies playing and vintage footage of "Soul Train" running overhead as a backdrop. Our veterans were acknowledged by Ms. Sheila Butler, Commission Chair, and the oldest senior present was identified as 82 years old. Song, oral history and spoken word as well as dance forms (praise, zumba, chair dance) were well received by the audience. Chair exercises led by Ward 2 Commissioner Fred Hill got seniors moving in their seats to music by the well-known South African trumpet player Hugh Masekela (who passed on January 23, 2018). The stirring sounds of the Stars of Hope Singers brought on memories of the a cappella group, 'Sweet Honey in the Rock,' a powerful all-female singing group of the 70's (still popular today). The Charles Woods Jazz Trio and Vocalist Shirleta Settles were, as always, in exceptional form. The historical personage featured for the day was Adam Francis Plummer, an enslaved gentleman of the Riversdale Plantation nearby, who personified the undaunted spirit, courage and love of family. Taught by a Black preacher in secret, he recorded a diary of his life at the plantation, which was a rare find. A tape recording of one of his present day descendants, a great great grandson, recounted the elder Plummer's story for this and future generations. The Afrocentric Fashions worn by the 'struttin' senior ladies—using walker or cane where needed—was quite the crowd pleaser. Finally, John Leiva, Cottage City's own and now freshman at the University of Maryland Eastern Shore, joined the jazz trio in a violin rendition of 'Little Sunflower' by Freddy Hubbard.

The event was conceived and coordinated by Ms Renee Watts of Colmar Manor and Ms Shirley Lewis of Cottage City. However, it "takes a village," and so kudos to ALL who participated, contributed, tweaked and helped in every form and fashion. Make every day "A Black History Day," as we learn and appreciate more and more about this group of resilient seniors, many of whom are still resolutely standing, and who produced in their wake "The Obama Generation." Last but certainly not least, many thanks to the Mayor for the use of the Town's wonderful facility in hosting this event.
